

OHIO VOTERS BUSY DECIDING CONTEST

RESULT OF TODAY'S PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY MAY DETERMINE REPUBLICAN NOMINEE.

A HEAVY VOTE IS CAST

Taft Managers Are Pleased With Weather Prospects and Are Confident of Victory When Polls Close.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 21.—Ohio voters decked to the polls today to cast their ballots at the presidential primary the result of which on the republican ticket is said to be sufficient to determine whether President Taft or Colonel Roosevelt will be nominated. Weather conditions were favorable and a heavy vote was cast according to reports throughout the state.

Sun Dawns Bright. Columbus, Ohio, May 21.—Taft's managers early today declared that the bright sun with which preliminary day dawned was indicative of a sure victory for the president. Many of the farmers, they said, who were supporting Colonel Roosevelt, were far behind in their spring work and would not leave their fields to cast a vote.

Roosevelt's supporters stuck firmly to their former claim that a majority of the delegates elected would be Roosevelt men.

Early Vote Large. Almost all of the 5,000 precincts opened at 5:30 o'clock and in the city a large early vote was cast. The polls close at 8:30 tonight in the city, but in some of the country districts they will remain open until six o'clock.

Two candidates for the presidential nomination, President Taft and Governor Harmon, will cast their vote in Cincinnati. The president will leave that city early in the day. Governor Harmon will remain at his home to hear the returns.

Colonel Takes Rest. New York, May 21.—Colonel Roosevelt returned from his campaign in Ohio today, and went to his home in Oyster Bay where he will remain for several days before engaging in the primary fight in New Jersey. Colonel Roosevelt was pleased with his election in Ohio and when asked regarding the outcome, remarked: "I am a better warrior than a prophet."

Munsey in Denial. New York, May 21.—Frank A. Munsey today made a complete denial of the statement recently published that Colonel Roosevelt had promised him the ambassadorship to the court of St. James in the event of his election. Mr. Munsey said: "I wish to say that there is not one word of truth or shadow of truth in it. Mr. Roosevelt has never offered me anything and I have never asked anything of him. I want to add that whatever I am doing in this Roosevelt campaign is done purely from a citizen's point of view and not with regard to any personal work for Mr. Roosevelt himself."

WITHDRAWS REQUEST TO STOUGHTON CITY

Stoughton Man Cancels $30,000 Gift Because of Court's Action Toward Daughter.

Stoughton, Wis., May 21.—This city stands to lose a $30,000 gift for a library because of a recent court action in which the daughter of Jerome Hixby, a wealthy farmer, was accused of assault by a neighbor. In a communication to the local paper Hixby said that owing to the attitude of several city officials he regrets to state that "there is a bequest in my will giving $30,000 to the public library of the city of Stoughton which has been cancelled. Anyone who thinks this story a little fishy is referred to Attorney Huber, who is not doing business for me now but would hardly dare deny his own handwriting."

WITNESSES CALLED IN ARCHBALD CASE

Seranton Attorney and President of Philadelphia and Reading Company Heard on Stand Today.

Washington, May 21.—In the Archibald hearing today, H. C. Reynolds of Seranton, an attorney, testified that on Friday or March, he was talking with John T. Leland, a former congressman, about the opinion that he did not wish to have C. G. Holland discount the $500 note endorsed by Judge Archibald about the time Holland had a case before the judge.

George F. Ther, president of the Philadelphia and Reading railway company, testified that the railway company was not connected with the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company of which he is also president. "The policy of the company," he said, "was not to lease its coal banks."

RICHESON'S BODY IS CLAIMED BY BROTHER

Remains of Man Executed at Midnight for Murder of Avis Linnell, Taken to Virginia.

Reston, Mass., May 21.—Douglas Richeson of Chicago, a brother of the former congressman, Charles V. P. Richeson, who paid the penalty for the murder of Avis Linnell in the electric chair at the state prison just after midnight, claimed the body today. Before the body could be taken by relatives it was necessary for Dr. Geo. H. MacGrath, medical examiner of Suffolk County, to perform an autopsy as required by law.

The report that the brain and other organs of the man might be given over to a medical institution and medical specialists for examination and study was declared untrue by Dr. MacGrath.

Richeson's body will be taken back to his old home in Virginia. If his wishes are carried out it will be buried in the little cemetery at Amherst Court House.

The words as the body is committed to the grave, will be said by Rev. Howard Herbert S. Johnson of Boston who was Richeson's spiritual advisor after being taken to the death house. One of the last requests made by Richeson was that Mr. Johnson accompany his body back to Virginia. Mr. Johnson also will carry messages from the executed murderer to his relatives.

Richeson left no will but in conversation with Mr. Johnson and William A. Morse, his legal counsel during the hours preceding his death, he gave directions as to the disposition of his personal effects. His library Richeson left to clerical friends.

The execution of Richeson is said by witnesses to have been the most successful of any of the fourteen that have been held in the state prison since the electric chair was adopted. It was only necessary to apply the current once and in less than fifteen minutes after Warden Bridges and the party of witnesses left the prison for the death house they filed back and attached their signatures to the papers stating that the order of the court had been complied with.

Within a few days the death house will be occupied again by Louis Guzman and Barlow Stuebel, who have been sentenced to death during the week of May 20 for the murder of the woman's husband.

Sentenced to Death. Lincoln, Neb., May 21.—Albert Prince, a convict, convicted of the murder of Deputy Warden Ed. Davis of the state penitentiary at the close of chapel exercises February 11, was today sentenced to hang August 20. Prince laughed and joked throughout the proceedings.

Mad Nightmares. Denver, May 21.—Oscar Cook, a murderer condemned to die in New Mexico, arose from the cell in his cell in the county jail at midnight and heaved a sigh of relief. "How glad I am," he said, "that I am not a prisoner here. I can't sleep thinking of him." Throughout the night as the guard tramped the corridor the condemned man clung to the bars of his cell. "Can't you telephone the newspapers and find out if he died like a man or like a cur. See if he had to be carried."

"Is it easier than to be hanged, do you think there is any chance of the state putting in a chair before November?" Cook refused to return to bed declaring horrible nightmares filled his dreams.

ASHLAND COUNTY BUILDING BANNER ROADS THIS YEAR.

Highway Engineer Hirst Reports Favorably of Work Now in Progress in Northern Parts.

Madison, Wis., May 21.—"Ashland county will do the most intensive road work ever done in Wisconsin," said State Highway Engineer A. H. Hirst upon his return from an inspection trip to northern Wisconsin. The county is even building a railroad to haul the materials, a distance of three and one-half miles. The county will build twelve miles of new road this year from the proceeds of a $50,000 bond issue.

Mr. Hirst reported that near Rhineland eleven miles of new road are being opened up by Oneda county, to be done by day labor under the direction of the state highway commission. The work is being supervised by P. M. Sargeant of Rhineland.

The commission's work on experimental roads in the Fox River valleys will start about June 1, beginning near Appleton.

STUDENTS MUST RETURN BEFORE MIDNIGHT HOUR.

University Faculty Places Time Limit on Students Attending Social Functions Out of City.

Madison, Wis., May 21.—Rules governing the hours of dances held outside the city of Madison and attended by students have been issued by the student interests committee of the University of Wisconsin faculty. The restrictions are the same as those applying to parties at uptown halls. All parties held at pavilions across the lakes must close so that students may be able to return to Madison not later than midnight. The names of chapters must be given by the persons in charge not later than two days before the party. The keeping of a card index, open to the public, containing the dates of university functions, is a recent innovation.

Washington, May 21.—Determined to curtail speculation in cotton, congress today passed a bill providing for exact information in the spring as to the number of acres of cotton in cultivation and in the item as to the production from the same acreage.

OLBRICH CHOSEN TO NOMINATE SENATOR

Madison Attorney, Delegate of Third District, Will Undoubtedly Present La Follette's Name.

Madison, Wis., May 21.—Michael H. Olbrich of this city, delegate from the Third congressional district of Wisconsin to the republican national convention, will undoubtedly be chosen to nominate Senator La Follette as president. The only other name that has been suggested in the La Follette camp to present the Senator's name is Henry B. Cochemus of Milwaukee, known as the Senator's friend. La Follette four years ago, it is generally believed here that Olbrich will be selected this time. Walter L. Hanson, La Follette's campaign manager, said that no name had yet been decided upon. He admitted, however, that either Olbrich or Cochemus would be acceptable.

Previous to this time it was the idea that if La Follette carried several states, his name should be presented by one of his colleagues, and because of the native support given by Senator A. J. Cushman of North Dakota in the La Follette campaign in that state it was expected that Cushman would be chosen. At present, however, Wisconsin has the largest delegation to support La Follette in the convention, and it now seems logical to the leaders that a man from this state should be selected for the honor.

Olbrich has long been a protégé of Senator La Follette. As governor, La Follette had him appointed to a position in the state bureau of labor so that Olbrich could earn sufficient funds to maintain himself at the University of Wisconsin, where he was an orator of note. For the past three weeks Olbrich has been studying California for the Senator. According to Mr. Hanson, Olbrich's speeches there attracted considerable attention. Mr. Olbrich is a member of the law firm of Aylward, Davies, Olbrich and Hill.

SENATOR RIDICULES G. O. P. CANDIDATES IN SPEECH TODAY

Senator Stone, in Address, Compares Roosevelt and Taft to Danion and Pythias and Calls Campaign a Vaudeville Show.

Washington, May 21.—Senator Stone of Missouri today carried out his purpose of addressing the senate on the "Modern Danion and Pythias and Correlated Subjects Pertaining to Current Politics." "Any man having even a meager knowledge of ancient lore will recall the story of Danion and Pythias and the story of David and Jonathan. A few years ago the American people and the civilized world were given to understand that here in our own dear country we had a reproduction of these glorious traditions of the far distant past. We were led to believe that the combined and consolidated spirit of Danion and Jonathan had come out of their haven of rest and taken refuge in the corps of Theodore Roosevelt and that the combined spirit of David and Pythias had in like manner come to rest on the ample bosom of William Howard Taft. Thus in happy conjunction both of these old stories of ancient lore and love were reproduced here in this new world of ours for the edification and uplifting of the human race." Senator Stone, amid laughter, said it had been a case of "two souls with but a single thought; two hearts that beat as one," until "The slimy and poisonous serpent of ambition crawled across the path that they were walking and divided them. Both had tasted the bitter sweet of power and liked it overmuch. Both were tempted and both fell."

"So instead of power we have had war," the senator continued. "War with knives and knives to the hilt. As a consequence of this ferocious contest the country and the world have been treated to a series of spectacular vaudeville stunts in politics without a parallel in the history of our country and which I devoutly hope will not be repeated."

Senator Stone referred to Senator La Follette's participation in the campaign and continued, "Mr. President: Passing over the personal and party aspect of this miserable squabble it is not truly a sad spectacle to witness the two world-famous churches today resolutions were adopted 'Urging all Presbyterian communicators (laymen) to keep in close touch with young men who might be candidates for the ministry.' Rev. Joseph W. Cochrane of Philadelphia, discussing a minister's living chances, said: 'We hear advice that a man to be a minister must starve. I know that to be true. I will admit that the salaries are not princely, but it can't be remedied except by this very assembly.' Immediately Rev. Dr. Henry J. Becker of Dayton, Ohio, interrupted:

"Hundreds of gray-haired men of the ministry annually are dismissed or cast aside," he said. "Men of brains, education, and good records are eliminated for no other reason than they are too old." To this Dr. Becker attributed the gradual decline of successful candidates for the ministry. "The young men need the advice and counsel of their elders, but now 'there are too few elders.'"

DETROIT PLAYERS FINED $100 EACH

SALARIES TOO LOW ON STATE PAY-ROLL

Not Enough High Salaries to State Employees Cause for Readjustment Howl.

Madison, Wis., May 21.—An adjustment of salaries of officials and employees in the state capitol is necessary according to the special report of the joint committee on finance which has just been issued. Herbert H. Sands, who has been conducting the investigation, believes that inequalities in salaries is due to a lack of standardization.

"Among special subjects worthy of inquiry at the present time may be mentioned state salary rates," says Mr. Sands. "It seems probable that there are too many low salaries and not enough high salaries; that the recipients of the former are overpaid for the services rendered, while the recipients of the latter are underpaid; that there are many inequalities due to lack of standardization. Such problems demand just such a comprehensive investigation as might be made by a permanent staff of the finance committee."

Already the ideas of Mr. Sands are being placed in operation through a special investigation conducted by the state board of public affairs. Auditors of the board are going over the vouchers at the capitol to ascertain the exact amount of labor and its character, required of each person on the capitol payroll, with a view to making a case of "two souls with but a single thought; two hearts that beat as one," until "The slimy and poisonous serpent of ambition crawled across the path that they were walking and divided them. Both had tasted the bitter sweet of power and liked it overmuch. Both were tempted and both fell."

NEED OF MINISTERS IS DECLARED TODAY

Presbyterian Conference Adopts Resolution Recommending Laymen to Aid in Securing Ministers.

Louisville, Ky., May 21.—After the surprising declaration that there are two thousand churches in the United States "pastorless and shepherdless" had been made in the general assembly of the Northern Presbyterian church today resolutions were adopted "Urging all Presbyterian communicators (laymen) to keep in close touch with young men who might be candidates for the ministry." Rev. Joseph W. Cochrane of Philadelphia, discussing a minister's living chances, said: "We hear advice that a man to be a minister must starve. I know that to be true. I will admit that the salaries are not princely, but it can't be remedied except by this very assembly." Immediately Rev. Dr. Henry J. Becker of Dayton, Ohio, interrupted:

"Hundreds of gray-haired men of the ministry annually are dismissed or cast aside," he said. "Men of brains, education, and good records are eliminated for no other reason than they are too old." To this Dr. Becker attributed the gradual decline of successful candidates for the ministry. "The young men need the advice and counsel of their elders, but now 'there are too few elders.'"

GRAPE VINES KILLED BY SEVERE WINTER.

George J. Kellogg Writes From Lake Mills on Care of Vines Should Not Prune Too Early.

George J. Kellogg writes from Lake Mills that the severe winter left grape vines in bad condition. Those already covered are about as dead as those left uncovered, but the buds seem to be all sound and the vines are starting slowly. He advises growers not to prune the old vines before the middle of June. He has seen buds that started then produce a good crop. The killing of vines in 1899 was caused by drought. The garden should be kept hoed and raked after every rain. The ground should not be permitted to cake hard.

ADVERSE DECISION WAS FILED TODAY IN A LOCAL CASE

Dodgett Milling Company Loses Contention as to Railroad Rating For Grains.

Washington, May 21.—The interstate commission today declined to order the C. M. and St. Paul railway to establish rates at Janesville, Wis., the mill-in-transit privileges accorded to grain at St. Paul and Minneapolis. The commission held that the privileges granted in the "Twain Cities" were forced by competition among the rural carriers and were not discriminatory.

The adverse decision is the result of a contention raised by the Dodgett Milling company of this city relative to preferential rates which were granted Minneapolis and St. Paul concerns which were most advantageous to the milling industries of that city and worked to the disadvantage of the local company. Similar rates were not asked for Janesville, but the request made the privileges rates be discontinued at the "Twain Cities."

Wanted: 16 Million Business Women for the Running of 16 Million Homes

By J. R. HAMILTON Former Advertising Manager of Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

What America needs today above all things is business women. And where we need them most is not in business offices but in homes. What we want is not so much a woman who can run a kitchen, as a woman who knows how much it costs to run a kitchen. If we do not get our domestic science up to the standard of our commercial science, we are going to start an epidemic of household insolvency that will startle the world. Ninety per cent. of our matrimonial unhappiness is due not to temper nor temperament, but to common, ordinary domestic bankruptcy.

There is no money in the family till the books won't balance; the cash is overdrawn; and the partners are at war. That's the story; that's the whole story. And in most of such cases, even Reno becomes an unbearable expense.

Nearly every tug of the heart strings begins with a tug at the purse strings. If the women of America have the brains to maintain many of the equities which they now enjoy, they must also have the brains or acquire the science to run their homes along commercial lines.

The chief problem of domestic science is how to take a certain income of money and live up to it; not over it and not necessarily under it, but how to make all of your bills balance that certain amount of cash.

Naturally the only way to do this is to plan your expenditures. And the only way to know the cost of what you are going to buy, is to compare the prices at which other people are selling.

These comparative prices are published every day in the advertising columns of this paper. No shrewd merchant hides his light under a bushel. Whenever he has anything good to offer you, he puts it over his signature in these columns.

So the first thing you gain by following the advertising is a choice always of the best that is being offered in each line. And when these merchants realize that so many thousands of you are using their advertising day by day as the basis for your buying, you may depend upon it they are going to stretch every possible point to maintain your interest.

If you will follow this plan for a short time, you will find that you are merchandising your home in the same way that these business men merchandise their stores. You will become as shrewd at buying as they are. Your books will begin to balance, and you will discover that you are the head of a big, successful institution known as a "Prosperous Home."

EXPERIMENTS MADE ON BEETS AND PEAS

Agricultural College Conducting Tests Which Will Interest Growers of These Crops in Rock County.

Growers of peas and beets for the market in Rock County will be interested in a series of experiments which are being conducted by the agricultural college of the state university.

In regard to peas a series of tests are being made to ascertain whether or not they can be grown on which practically all the blossoms will bloom at one time, and the pods develop simultaneously. This will insure a better quality of canned peas for the market. One of the handicaps of the industry in this and other states has been that the pods are dead ripe on one vine while on another branch of the same plant there are blossoms or half-developed pods.

Two pea canners have advised the university that a better variety should be developed to give an increased yield, with uniform size and ripening time. They claim it would not only improve the quality of the product furnished to the consumer but that the crop could be harvested at less cost. The preliminary work done at the college in the past year or more indicates that a short pea vine can be grown to meet all these requirements.

Instead of Wisconsin farmers buying their best seed in Germany and other countries, as has been the practice, they will grow their own seed hereafter if the present experiments at the state college prove successful. Not only this, but the best seed adapted to Wisconsin soil and climate, with high sugar content, will be developed in this state. Prof. C. P. Norgard, who is conducting these tests, believes that hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of seed can be developed as well in this state as in foreign countries. The first year a best seed is planted it merely produces a beet. Tests of a number of beets have been made at the college and those showing high sugar qualities have been transplanted this spring to develop best seed.

Prof. R. A. Moore is another who shares the belief that a best ultimately will be grown in Wisconsin which will produce sugar in much larger quantities than the best crops now yield. The best sugar factories at Madison, Menominee Falls and Janesville are greatly interested in the experiments at the agricultural college and have promised all possible cooperation in developing the beet industry in this state.

YOUTHFUL THIEVES KEEP SHOP KEEPERS ON WATCH

Two Caught Saturday Night With Baseballs, Auto Goggles and Fish Hooks in Cigar Box.

Youthful shop lifters are keeping the merchants busy watching them when they appear in their stores and begin adding pieces of baseballs, fishing apparatus and sporting goods generally. Last Saturday two little fellows, well connected, secured two dollar and a quarter base balls and a special kind of fish hook at one hardware store and a pair of goggles at a second, being caught at the second place just as they were trying to make away with some fishing tackle. They were given a lecture and the boys were taken to the police station. The stolen goods returned and the boys sent home. One merchant stated that recently he caught a boy with a base ball stuck under his belt and another tells the story of a boy who stole a complete ball outfit, including mask, chest protector, ball, bat and mitt and gloves and was finally caught and forced to refund the goods when he tried to steal a second bat. None of the cases have been reported to the police owing to the prominence of the boys' families, but it is stated the next caught will be taken into court by the merchants who are the losers, as a lesson to others.

WARNING IN REGARD TO BERRY BOX LAW

State Sealer Emery Again Calls Attention to Provisions in Letter to City Sealers.

Another warning has been issued to city sealers and retail merchants of the state who sell berries, that the provisions of the berry box law passed at the special session must be obeyed. Following is the letter sent out a copy of which was received by City Sealer Kennedy of this city:

To Sealers of Weights and Measures:

The law, chapter 15, laws of 1912, requires that each berry box of other capacity than the quart, pint or half-pint, dry measure, must have "plainly and indelibly stamped" on the box in color different from the box and in characters not less than one-half inch high the function which shows what part its interior capacity is of the quart or pint dry measure. The quart, dry measure, contains 67.2 cubic inches.

The following are suggestive fractions, allowing a tolerance not exceeding 3 per cent above or below.

Berry boxes with an interior capacity of 18 to 62 cubic inches should be stamped or branded 3-4 quart.

Berry boxes with an interior capacity of 64 to 58 cubic inches should be stamped or branded 5-8 quart.

Berry boxes with an interior capacity of 56 to 62 cubic inches should be stamped or branded 3-10 quart, etc.

Marking with pencil is not compliance with the law.

For their own protection, retail dealers should demand of commission men or wholesalers, if the crates do not contain standard quart, standard pints or half pints, or are not sold and billed by net avoirdupois weight, that the berries be billed so as to show the true fractional part of the quart or pint, dry measure, as the case may be; and the retailer should exact a sufficient legal guarantee that the boxes are so represented and billed. They should insist that their invoices represent the facts in the case.

Very truly yours,
J. E. Emery,
State Sealer of Weights and Measures.

SEVERE ELECTRICAL STORM VISITS CITY

Three Residences Struck by Lightning Which Plays Curious Pranks.—Electric Lights Put Out.

Two or more heavy electrical storms accompanied by heavy down-pours of rain broke in rapid succession over Janesville and vicinity last night. The crashes of thunder from the approaching storms came with the rapidity and frequency of artillery volleys and there were few homes in which some of the occupants were not awakened from their slumbers to close the windows or to assume the "duck" position. Three houses struck in Janesville. At the home of J. W. Hauer, 525 Center avenue, the bolt struck the gable of the house, passed through the window of an upper bedroom, knocking out and smashing the sash, and from there spread to three different bed rooms. In one it made a hole through the wall just above a bed where two little girls had been sleeping but a short time before. The lightning then found its way downstairs to the kitchen where it burned the handles of several kitchen utensils hanging near the stove and passed out through the wall of another bedroom. Considerable plaster was knocked down throughout the house.

The chimney of the residence of David Lawrence, 609 West Hunt street, was split by lightning for half its length, part of it falling to the ground and the rest remaining standing in a twisted position. Shingles were ripped off the roof and stringers split. The damage is estimated at $35. The home of Mrs. W. H. Graves 318 Linn street, was also struck, and a number of clapboards splintered and ripped off the back. A pole near the St. Paul roundhouse was struck and the electric lights and turntable motor temporarily put out of commission. Electric lights were put out over a large part of the city.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Marriage Licenses: Licenses to wed were issued at the office of the county clerk today to Fred L. Graves and Elizabeth A. Burgess, both of this city; and to John A. Horton of Vinton, Iowa, and Elizabeth M. Pinkerton of Kaukauna, Ill.

Committee Meeting: Committee No. 7 of the county board of supervisors on public property and buildings, composed of E. C. Hopkins, Edgerton; Ed. Rutherford of this city; and C. M. Smith of Evansville, met at the office of the county clerk this afternoon to open bids for the installment of boilers in the county asylum.

Tax Sale Held: There was quite a gathering at the office of the county treasurer today for the annual tax sale. Various described property in the county upon which the taxes were delinquent was offered for sale at auction to recover the taxes and the interest thereon. The cities of Edgerton and Evansville had but one lot each to go under the hammer.

No Ground for Rumor: Rumor that a local groceryman handling fish on Fridays was arrested and fined for offering pike for sale last Friday proved erroneous. The dealer in question was approached by a deputy game and fish warden but convinced him after telegraphic communication with a Green Bay dealer, that the sale of Lake Superior pike was legal after May 15. The game warden acted on the belief the pike were caught in other Wisconsin waters.

Jailed for Intoxication: Frank Smith, a laborer, plead guilty in the Municipal Court this morning to being found intoxicated and in default of a fine of $3 and costs was sentenced to six days in jail. Smith was found in the possession of two red lights, such as are used for warnings by sewer contractors. The plumbing firm of George and Clemens has been missing lanterns for some time and it is thought Smith was guilty, but he explained that they belonged to another contractor for whom he was working.

IMPORTANT ACTION TAKEN AT MEETING

Resolutions Passed at Convention of Rock County Sunday Schools at Milton Junction.

At the forty-second annual convention of the Rock County Sunday School association, held at Milton Junction last week now and definite work for the year was suggested in the following resolutions:

"Inasmuch as the Rock county convention has voted to divide the county into six districts to further the work of the Sunday schools; therefore, be it

Resolved, that, for the coming year, we aim to hold at least one, and possibly two, Sunday-school institutes in each district to interest the local workers of the county.

Resolved, that we strive for the international "standard of excellence," as outlined for Sunday schools throughout the world.

Resolved, further, that the definite policy of our county for the coming year be to lay stress upon the organization of a cradle roll in every school, and that we urge the formation of organized classes among the older pupils. That we also emphasize the value of teacher-training classes in every school or district, and that we hold a graduation exercise at the next county convention, with the presentation of diplomas to those successfully completing the required work.

Resolved, that we, as a county, come into fuller co-operation with our state work, and that we try to secure fifty delegates for a special car to the state convention at Oshkosh, Nov. 12-14, 1912. That we heartily welcome our new state secretary, Rev. F. H. Brigham, to the work among us.

Resolved, that the thanks of this convention be extended to the sustaining churches for their cordial hospitality, and to all those who have helped make the program a success in song and speech.

TO GIVE POLICEMEN DAY OFF EVERY WEEK

Extra Officer Will be Appointed So As to Make Plan Feasible.—Fire and Police Commission Meets.

One day of rest each week for all members of the police force is to be secured by the appointment of an additional officer, which will probably be made by Chief of Police Appleby today and confirmed by the Council at its meeting this afternoon. In order to pave the way for this innovation, the Fire and Police Commission, at its meeting in the office of the Mayor last evening, conducted an examination of Chasney Fredendall and Harry Smith, candidates for a place on the regular police force. Both men passed the examination. Mayor Paterson and Chief Appleby are of the opinion that the officers are entitled to one day of rest in each week in common with men employed in other capacities.

The Commission at its meeting last night re-elected Harry Nowlan president and Arthur Jones secretary. The meeting was the first held since the new Council went into office, and the first attended by Mayor Paterson, who is an ex officio member. Those present were: Harry Nowlan, Arthur Jones, J. A. Paterson, George Kimball, William Jeffris, Walter L. Taylor, the entire personnel of the board.

MAKES DISPOSITION OF ENTIRE ESTATE

Will of the Late John Fitzgerald Filed in the County Court.

By the will of the late John Fitzgerald, one of the pioneers of Janesville, filed in the probate court, an estate estimated at a hundred thousand dollars is disposed of. With the exception of bequests to relatives and near friends, the bulk of the estate goes to the widow to be held in trust during her life and then reverts to the grandchildren of the widow by a former marriage.

The special bequests made are as follows:

To Robert Patterson, Eugene Patterson and Anna Patterson of New York City children of a deceased sister, one thousand dollars each. To Amy Noonan and John Noonan, also children of a sister of Mr. Fitzgerald, one thousand dollars each. To Mary E. Sutherland, Mrs. Susan Wilcox of Janesville, William E. Watson of Pinos Altos, N. M., Sarah May Kinn, of Minneapolis and Mrs. Annette Watson, widow of the late John H. Watson of Janesville, all children of the late John Watson, the sum of two thousand each.

To James Coy of Chicago, Mrs. Juliet Decker of the town of Harmony, Mrs. Maud Rossow of Beloit, and George Coy of the town of Harmony, children of the widow of the testator, two thousand dollars each. In addition George Coy of Harmony also receives the fifty acres he now lives on to revert to his heirs at his death. The residue of the estate, both real and personal, is left to the widow.

The estate is estimated at seventy-five thousand dollars personal property and twenty-five thousand dollars real estate. Mr. Fitzgerald was associated with the late John Watson in business for many years and lived at the Watson home until his marriage. He came to Wisconsin in an early day and amassed his fortune by contracting work and successful purchases of real estate.

F. H. Wales, 1004 Forest St., Racine Wis., had an acute attack of kidney trouble and knew at once what would cure him. He says: "I took Foley's Kidney Pills and in a few days my back was better. Now I am cured and have had no return of the trouble. Foley's Kidney Pills did it."—Ludger Drug Co.

Probate Court: Attorneys J. H. Dow, T. D. Woolsey, H. W. Adams, and C. D. Ross of Meloit; A. A. Cleveland of Clinton, Burr Sprague of Brookhead, and Jas. G. Keotal of Milwaukee were at the court house today for the special May term of the probate court.

Important meeting Ben Hur tomorrow night to be held promptly at 7:30 o'clock. Two deputes will be here for this meeting and every member is requested to be present. At eight o'clock there will be a musical program, cards and refreshments for members and friends. C. M. Erler, Chief.

Jealousy a Sham.

Jealousy is a terrible thing. It resembles love, only it is precisely love's contrary. Instead of wishing for the welfare of the object loved, it desires the dependence of that object upon itself and its own triumph. Love is the forgetfulness of self; jealousy is the most passionate form of egotism.

Promoters at Gary, Ind., are making strenuous efforts to match Packey McFarland and Eddie Murphy of Boston for a ten round bout on July 4. Murphy is willing, but Packey hasn't been heard from yet.

Although Packey defeated Murphy in a ten-round club at South Bend, during the winter, the pair put up such a good fight that fans are anxious to see another argument.

Grand Rapids is surprising Central league fans this season. For years past the team has never been able to get out of the second division. Now it is hovering around the top. The chances are that it won't stay there very long, though. There are several reasons why it won't. One of them is that the people of the Michigan town take little interest in their team. Last year the players didn't get their salaries very regularly. They think that the heart out of a team.

Down in little old New York the good sports are sharing the praises of Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion. After his decisive victory over Frankie Burns the other night, Kilbane refused the invitation of a big crowd of idol worshippers to "see the town." He said he didn't want to stay away from his wife and babe overnight. He went home at once, thereby winning considerable approval. Your Uncle Daniel commends Kil-bane for that little act. May the tribe increase.

The Detroit Tigers continue to be the boners, drawing crowds of the American league. On their eastern trip they are playing to immense business. At New York they drew the largest crowd of the season. Cobb, Crawford & Co. are certainly great cards.

Friday, the day of hoodlums, Jonahs and thimble holds forth no terrors for the St. Louis Nationals. They have made their biggest conquests on that day this year.

The question arises, who will stop the White Sox? That which aggression has wanted through everything this season. When one stops to consider their big lead, it looks as if they'd be pretty much in the hat of the pennant struggle through out the season.

Gus Ruhlin never was a world beater, even in the heyday of his career. Yet the "Akron Giant," who died recently, has left a $10,000 estate for his relatives to scap over.

Wait until Tom Sharkey expires. Judging from Ruhlin's enterprise the sailor ought to be worth about a million. They say he never spent a nickel of voluntarily.

NEW UNITED STATES LEAGUE GIVING SOME GOOD EXHIBITIONS OF BASEBALL

The United States league, which had its birth this season, is giving some good exhibitions of baseball. Further, practically every team in the league is now making money. Among the players are a few who are not new to big league baseball. "Bugs" Raymond, formerly with the New York Giants, is now with the Chicago U. S. team. Jack O'Connor, formerly of the St. Louis Browns, is managing the Cleveland aggressives. A young U. S. player who has never traveled with the big league is Kirby, who plays in the Cleveland infield. He is certainly making good. He is said to be one of the best new men that has appeared in league baseball this season.

MEL MARQUETTE IN SWEEPSTAKES RACE

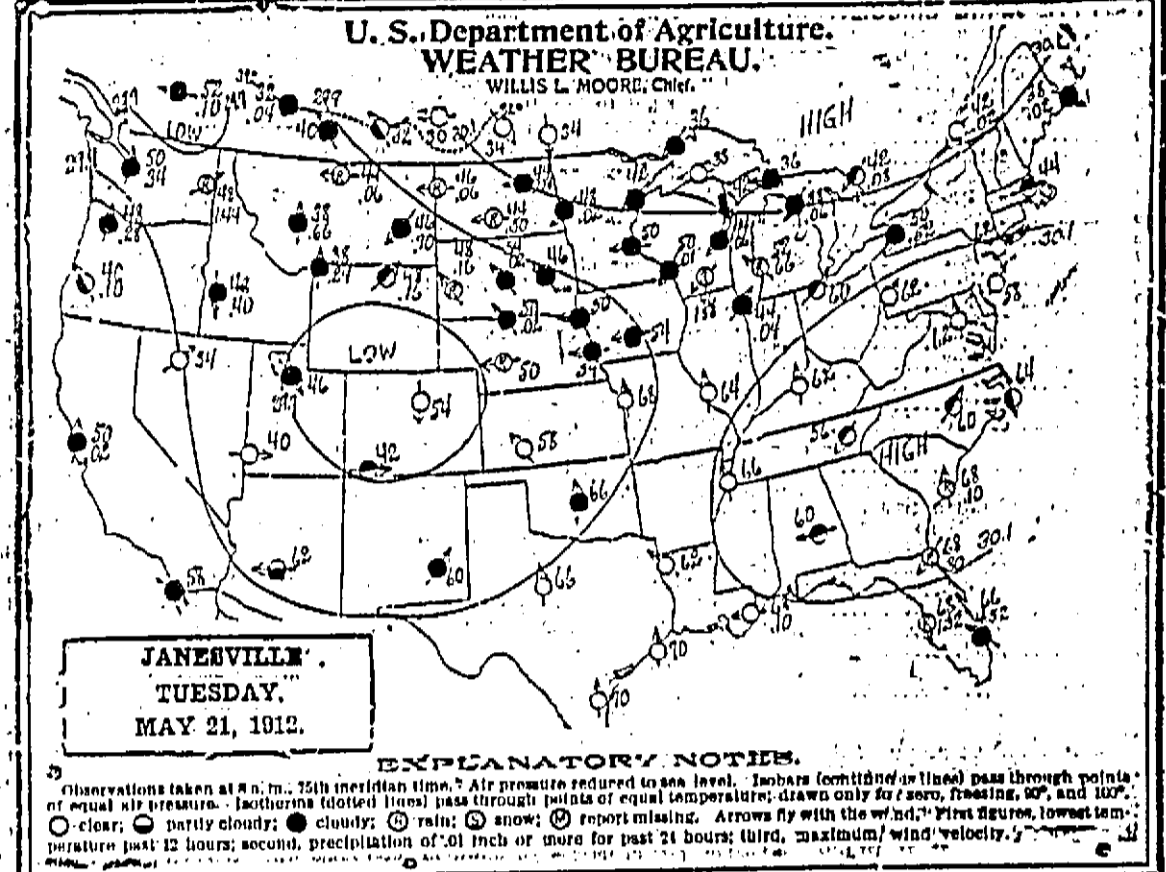

Mel Marquette.

One of the most versatile men in the handling of motors in the United States is Mel Marquette, aviator and racing driver. Marquette has been nominated to drive the Marquette-Hix entry in the second annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes race to be run at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway next Memorial day. Despite the fact that he has been the victim of several accidents both in racing machines and in aeroplanes, he has continued to follow both lines of sport. Marquette now has his big six-cylinder car on the Speedway course for practice, and is showing one hundred miles per hour speed. Possibility of life car will be one of twenty-seven to start in the second annual 500-mile race and he is considered one of the strongest entries in the event.

Babies—Lean and Fat.
Weigh the baby every day. All you need is one of the automatic weighing machines of small size such as the old-fashioned housekeeper uses in the kitchen when doling up fruit; and an oblong basket with a flat surface. Any mechanic will find means of accurately fastening this basket on the top of the scales, and when you have painted the entire contrivance white, made a pink or blue nest of padded China silk for the inner side of the basket and trimmed its outer side with enormous bows of satin ribbon, you will have a charming-looking extra cradle into which to temporarily deposit baby while its ordinary cradle is being aired.

Why Wood is Seasoned.
The effect of seasoning wood is to bring into the same space 10 per cent. more of the fibers than when the wood was green.

There has been very little change in the distribution of atmospheric pressure over the country over the past twenty-four hours. The barometer is high over the South-eastern states, and over Canada, and low throughout the West, with an extension of low pressure over the upper Mississippi valley and Lake Region. There have been showers and thunderstorms throughout the North-west, from the Lake Region to the Pacific. The heaviest rains were 1.58 inches at Madison, 1.36 at Dubuque, and 1.08 at Milwaukee. In this vicinity, and over Canada, and low throughout the West, with an extension of low pressure over the up-southern Florida and along the South Atlantic coast the weather has been rainy; 4.52 inches were recorded at Miami, and 1.32 at Tampa. In this vicinity the weather will continue rainy, with showers tonight or Wednesday. There will be little change in temperature.

POLITICS AND BUSINESS.

A national campaign year has always been considered an off year for business, and especially where much uncertainty exists concerning the outcome, as is the case at present time, yet the fact remains that business has always been, and will continue to be the controlling influence.

The trouble with a campaign is not so much that it demoralizes business, as that the game of politics, as played today, is so unprincipled, and so full of misrepresentation that the public mind is poisoned with all sorts of errors. Appeals to prejudice and ignorance is the stock in trade of many campaign orators and class distinction and class hatred is encouraged.

Labor is made to believe that it is down-trodden and oppressed; the farmer is encouraged to think that he is the under dog, in the fight. Capital and corporate wealth are under the ban, and a spirit of unrest everywhere prevails.

This pernicious doctrine, encouraged by muck-rake writers, has so disturbed the nation that the campaign was the only thing necessary to a climax, but business is of so much more importance than politics that it continues to thrive.

What is business anyway? It is the thing upon which all of us depend for a living. Why shouldn't it be of absorbing interest? The farmer is the most important factor, because agriculture is the foundation of prosperity, in this fair land, but his success depends not only on good crops, but on a healthy condition of the home market.

This can only exist when capital is fully employed and when the busy hum of industry rewards toil in the great world of labor. There is no division of interests, because mutual dependence is the law which governs. Times are good when everybody is busy, and business is the key which unlocks the avenues. A financial writer has this to say of the situation:

"It is premature to say that agitation has reached the end, or that any of the problems presenting for solution have been solved, but business must go on. Food, clothing and shelter are required as freely as ever; in fact, more so, to meet the demands of a rapidly growing population. Much of the present day agitation comes from those at the bottom of the social scale who insist upon a better standard of living. They are meeting with continued success in this direction, and the larger wages which they secure mean an increased purchasing power on their part."

"It is quite true that these demands may be pressed to an injurious degree, particularly if they impair the national savings, out of which all new capital must be provided and without which enterprise and industry would quickly languish. There is good reason, however, to believe much of the radicalism which rises to the surface when the political pot boils furthest is likely to subside after the campaign is over, no matter who the next President will be."

"It is also well to remember that many of the new ideas cannot be crystallized into law and that the most radical of candidates are always more conservative when in office, also that much of the disturbing agitation which is now going on is created purely for political effect."

conservative when in office, also that much of the disturbing agitation which is now going on is created purely for political effect."

THE SCREEN ORDINANCE.

The council made no mistake in passing the screen ordinance. The vote, however, should have been a unit in its favor. Public sentiment, by a strong majority, favored the adoption of the commission plan of government. The strongest opposition came from the saloon and people who favor the wide-open town.

The sentiment which gave to the city the new form of government, is stronger today than it was before the change was made, because many people who were skeptical have come to believe that it was a move in the right direction.

This is a fact that every member of the commission can afford to recognize. A large majority of the people believe in wholesome regulation, and the commission is elected by the majority, to carry out their wishes.

What is there about a screen that is so sacred to any man in any business, if he respects the law and proposes to keep it? They ought to be removed, not only on Sunday, but every other day of the week.

The man who wants a drink has a perfect right to buy it, and the man behind the bar has an equal right to sell. Why the screen, unless to shield the boys and habitual drunkards? Why not give the business some semblance of respect and decency, by conducting it the same as all other lines of business?

The members of the commission are on trial. They can afford to act as a unit on all questions that have to do with business and public morals.

Teaching the little children the names and habits of the birds in the public schools is a step towards teaching them to be true and honest men and women. Study of nature combined with what is taught in the school room is good training for the men and women of tomorrow.

Senator Dillingham has presented the Lorimer findings of the committee on privileges and elections and the majority clear the Illinois statesman of the charges brought. The minority report, however, is adverse, as expected. Next the senate will vote on the matter themselves.

The present national political campaign will doubtless go down in history as the great "slap stick" operation. The wonderful traveling circus that has been playing rival tents in Ohio has now folded its tents and moved elsewhere.

A Chicago woman had her husband arrested because he did not kiss her and recently another woman sued her husband for a divorce because he hugged and kissed her too much. Evidently it is hard to strike a happy medium with Chicago women.

No matter who is nominated at Chicago the democratic spell-blinders will have their scrap-books filled with useful information clipped from the speeches of the three leading aspirants for the nomination.

Perhaps Janesville will have public playgrounds for the children after all. Many prominent business men have taken a decided interest in the project and mean to do what they can to make it possible.

Chicago has an ordinance which forbids aviators from landing in public parks. Janesville has none and plans to let the bird men stop anywhere they wish to during the Eagles' convention.

They are still inquiring into the cause of the wreck of the Titanic and the English government will doubtless set something before the next big vessel goes down with nearly all on board.

A little sunshine and a few warm days would work wonders with the general disposition of the average farm or household who has planted a small plot of ground for a garden.

Congress still keeps busy doing nothing down in Washington and from the present outlook it is going to last into the "heated spell" quite a ways, if the heated spell ever comes.

One of the liveliest indoor sports is awaiting the fly. Try it and see how successful you can be.

Baton Rouge, La., May 21.—Congressman Joseph Ransdell and Robert S. Brownard were elected by the Louisiana legislature today to the United States senate.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By Roy K. Moulton.

An Appreciation.
We wish to thank our Congressman for a nifty package of garden seeds sent from Washington for our special use. It is nice to be thus remembered by one who is far away in a strange land and is far away in a postcard forty ways. There is a practical value to a package of congressional garden seeds which appeals. We had them cooked up for breakfast this morning and while they were fair, it must be remembered that congress has some Democratic recently and the flavor of the garden seeds is bound to be somewhat more biting and pessimistic than formerly, but we thank the thoughtful congressman just the same. We have eaten his garden seeds several years and they are all right.

An Ode to Partly Brothers.
Now is the summer of our discontent. We get a taste of future punishment. We fry, we boil, we sizzle, broil, we sear on fire, and we perspire. We who are fat.

We long to lose all too solid flesh And madly yearn for one small breeze that's fresh. We will, we melt, we reef our belt, we have no fun. Out in the sun. We'll tell you that.

The lean and lanky should no malice show. By hooting us who dire misfortune know. We suffer now. Enough, we vow, we're in no mood for satire rude. Far be it from.

But still, the partly brothers should cheer up. They've not yet reached the real drags of the cup. It's some warm now, but we'll allow. It's but the first. And that the worst. Is yet to come.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

CROSS EYED PEOPLE.
The technical name given to cross eyes by oculists is "strabismus." But—Do you know there is such a thing as a distortion of the mind's eye—a sort of mental strabismus?

As the vision of the natural eye is impaired by the defect in the eye muscles, so is the vision of the mind's eye affected by the lack of control of the mind muscles, so to speak.

The vision is distorted. I know a farmer who cannot rightly see things. When it rains, he fancies the crops will be ruined by the floods, and when it doesn't rain he is quite certain there will be a long, disastrous drought.

I know a merchant who suffers in the same way. It never is cold enough to sell his stock of winter goods, and mostly the weather is too chilly to offer his summer fabrics.

I know a lawyer who suffers from a like mental defect. He can see no good in his fellow attorneys. In his way of seeing, every member of the bar save himself is crooked. And the community never has given him credit for the ability he possesses.

Cross eyed.
I know a preacher who always sees and deprecates the decline of religion and the state of the church. He blames the people, instead of himself, because his congregation is so small.

I know a doctor who takes the time he should give to his medical journals to explain to you how his brother physician violates "professional ethics," while he himself is immaculate.

I know an editor who forever is finding fault with his town and its people and who seldom prints a boost for his community.

I know a man who can see no good in his neighbors or their children and who is busy the summer through with a controversy because of his dogs and chickens.

I know a woman who accents a scandal each time she sees two persons of opposite sex talking with each other, who is sure the grocer always cheats her and is ready to suggest that so and so is not as good as she appears to be.

Cross eyed people.
They cannot see things straight. Victims of mental strabismus, possibly they cannot be blamed for it. And the cure?

Flesh and blood cross eyes may be straightened and cured by a surgical operation. That is common.

Possibly there is no other way by which cross eyed minds may be cured.

Dorothy Bateman.

Miss Dorothy Bateman, the Innkeeper's daughter who is heiress of $250,000 under the will of Ross B. Winans of Baltimore, is a handsome and dainty young woman, and leading athletic society girls of Newport will have to look to their laurels. Her other achievements include long walks, playing and planting the soil, milking a cow or housing hay.

Better Than Gifts of Fortune.

Offenses to the Eye.
The effort which is to be made in New York to restrict or remove the huge and unsightly signs which disfigure the streets of the city by day and night, will be watched with interest elsewhere. It is believed that many of these violate existing ordinances and that others might be eliminated by proceeding against them as nuisances. Those that threaten life or shut out light and air ought to come easily within that category. The public is somewhat slower to recognize the fact that simple offenses to the eye may be proper objects of regulation; but with the increasing appreciation of civic beauty, this recognition is bound to come. It is futile to erect handsome buildings and lay out attractive parks if any one who chooses can mar the effect.—Providence Journal.

Perpetuate Old Meanings.
"Ballot" and "suffrage" show how language perpetuates the memory of primitive methods. A "ballot" should be a vote taken with balls—one of the various ancient Greek instruments of secret voting. And the word "suffrage," which by some is derived from "suffrago," a laurel wreath or ankle bone, in that case recalls an early method of recording the vote.

NEW ASSISTANT HAS COMMENCED DUTIES

Fr. William Mahoney of Milwaukee Has Succeeded Fr. F. T. Reilly As Assistant at St. Patrick's Church.

Fr. William Mahoney of Milwaukee has been appointed assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church in this city, as successor to Fr. F. T. Reilly, and has commenced the duties of his new office. Fr. Reilly, who was appointed last year to act as assistant pastor, temporarily, left Thursday for Milwaukee where he becomes assistant pastor of Holy Rosary parish, under Fr. J. J. Roche, and will establish a new parish in East Milwaukee. Fr. Reilly had the appointment at the time he came to Jamesville, but it was not then expected that he would be so soon called to it. He is a nephew of Dean E. E. Reilly, pastor of St. Patrick's church. He has been eminently successful in his work in this city during the time he has been here, and has made many friends.

Fr. Mahoney, the new incumbent, has for four years been assistant pastor of Holy Rosary parish, Milwaukee. He is an earnest worker for the church, and he will undoubtedly be as successful in his work here, as in the Milwaukee parish.

GETS FOUR MONTHS FOR CRUEL ASSAULT

Thomas Flood Sentenced to Jail After Pleading Guilty to Maltreatment of a Woman.

Thomas Flood was sentenced to four months' imprisonment in the county jail by Judge Field this morning after pleading guilty to making an assault upon a local woman, last evening. The lady, who is a widow with two little children and makes her home with her father, complained that Flood had persisted in annoying her with his attentions and that last night while in an intoxicated condition he followed her into her room, upbraided her in abusive language, and after seizing her by the hair threw her to the floor and kicked and beat her. Flood had nothing to say in his defense and asked to be allowed to leave town for good. Judge Field, before pronouncing sentence, gave him a severe reprimand as to his conduct and told him that he was deserving of a penitentiary sentence. Complaint from a different source was made against Flood a week ago but no prosecution started.

NOTES OF WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE MOVEMENT

Interesting Bits of News in Regard to Woman's Activity in Quest for Ballot.

This being "Leap Year," it may not be amiss, as showing the antiquity of Woman's Rights in the matter of "popping the question," to quote the following passage from a law passed in Scotland in 1283: "It is statute and ordalut that during the reign of his majesty Edward the first, the lady of Scotland, who was known as 'leap year,' for the many ladies of noble high and low estate have been to beseeke ye man who liketh."

Press clippings received at the National Suffrage Headquarters in New York reveal the fact that each State claims the honor of sending the largest and most attractive delegation of women to march in the great parade of May 4. Advocates of woman suffrage have grown accustomed to being referred to as ugly of face and figure, dowdy of dress, and generally unattractive, but this evidence of personal pride in them on the part of their local newspapers scores an interesting development in the votes for women movement.

The Gogum of Bhopal, India's famous woman ruler, has just donated $35,000 toward the establishing of a girls' school at Delhi. In a public address not long ago, she urged the women of India to make the education and liberation of their sex the chief object of their lives, declaring that female education is the foundation of all national success and progress.

Mrs. Anna Pitzer, the distinguished, gray-haired sister-in-law of Speaker Champ Clark, has been selected as one of the twelve delegates allowed to the State of Colorado in the National Democratic convention to be held in Baltimore next month. Mrs. Pitzer worked hard and long for woman suffrage in Colorado, where she has been a resident for many years.

Miss Louise Lester, of Maryland, has been appointed by President Taft a member of the committee to witness the destruction of paper currency. She is the first woman ever named for that service. The committee, composed of three persons, supervising the destruction of millions of dollars of old paper money sent to the Treasury for redemption.

Dr. Clara P. Solpelt, assistant city physician, served as foreman of a jury in Chicago a few days ago, and is said to be the first woman to act in that capacity in the State of Illinois. Dr. Solpelt is an ardent supporter of equal suffrage, and says that womanhood need not be forgotten in performing any public duty.

Lady Samuel presided at the annual meeting of the Women's League for Municipal Reform recently held in London, and that the work done by the women in connection with London's municipal elections during the past year was excellent and urged the League to continue its efforts in this direction during the coming borough and county council elections.

Mrs. Russell Sage, a staunch advocate of votes for women and a generous contributor to the cause, while watching the suffrage parade from her Fifth Avenue residence, said: "It is truly an inspiring sight; and while all wrongs may not be entirely righted when women vote, there will be many steps upward."

Reports from Idaho say that an interesting feature of the recent election at Boise was the part played by the women. As there were no curbs used to take the voters to the polls it was thought the women would not exercise their right of franchise, but it was found that as many women as men voted in almost every precinct, and in some places they outnumbered the men, electing their candidate for mayor of the city.

Wisconsin makes the boast that a large number of women are holding and have held more important offices in that state than in any other state in the Union. Out of the five women members of the board of the World's Fair Commissioners, two were from Wisconsin, Mrs. Charles M. Morris and Mrs. Theodore Youmans. Both had served as president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs. Since then Mrs. Morris has served as member of the Wisconsin Free Library Commission, and Mrs. Youmans has served continuously on the board of Normal School Regents and is an officer of the Wisconsin Women's Suffrage Association. Dr. Almah J. Pringle of Milwaukee served on the board of University Regents until appointed to a place on the State Board of Control of Charitable and Penal Institutions, where she still remains. Her place on the board of Regents was taken by Mrs. Kate Rubin Stevens. Mrs. Charles T. Burgess has been the State Factory Inspector for a number of years.

The story is told that the German Emperor, when visiting England not long ago, delivered a public address on how mothers should rear their children. Immediately after the lecture, in a discussion on woman suffrage he fiercely demanded, "What do women know of politics?" Whereupon Queen Mary quietly replied, "Surely as much as a man knows of the organization of a nursery and the manner in which a mother should rear her children."

EDGERTON COUNCIL IN QUIET SESSION

Usual Amount of Business Transacted at Meeting Last Night—Adjourned Meeting on Thursday Evening.

Edgerton, May 21.—The second regular monthly meeting of the common council was held last night and but little business of importance was transacted. There were a few bills allowed and a plumbers' license was granted to the J. D. Hahn estate. A largely signed petition for a sidewalk on East Fulton street alongside H. Mohr's property, was presented and read and referred to the street committee to report at the adjourned meeting to be held Thursday evening. To make ready for this walk would necessitate the removal of some thousand yards of dirt from the hillside and the erection of a retaining wall. This could be done cheap now as the work of graveling the hill is in progress. It would be one of the best improvements the city has made for years and would be a good convenience to residents the other side of the hill. The council will undoubtedly decide the matter Thursday evening.

On motion of Alderman Johnson a cement crosswalk was ordered laid on West Fulton street at intersection of Garfield street.

The street assessment committee met this afternoon to hear objections to the proposed improvement of Fulton, Swift and Henry streets.

As yet the mayor has not filled the vacancy in the fire and police commission, but will probably do so on Thursday evening.

ANOTHER COLD WAVE FOR MONTH OF MAY

Foster Predicts Low Temperatures for Last of Month and Then a Change to Warm Dry Weather.

Copyrighted 1912 by W. T. Foster. Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent May 18 to 22 and 23 to 25, warm waves May 20 to 21 and 22 to 24, cool waves May 24 to 25 and 26 to 27. Temperatures of these two disturbances will average lower than usual and therefore the crop weather will not be of the best, not as good as the first week of May. Early May rainfall as predicted for the dry parts of Kansas and Nebraska where wheat needed moisture, came in nicely during the week centering on May 5.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about May 25, cross Pacific slope by close of 25, great central valleys 27 to 29, eastern sections 30. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about May 25, great central valleys 27, eastern sections 29. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about May 28, great central valleys 30, eastern sections June 1.

Preceding this disturbance the average temperatures will be unusually low but the disturbance described will start the temperatures upward and carry them to much higher levels, bringing much better crop weather. It will also bring rains in about one-fourth of the sections east of the Rockies. Indications are favorable to heavy rains near the Gulf coast west of Florida.

We are now near a great change in crop weather. We have had the floods, the extreme cold, the tornadoes and other dangerous storms. Weather events are somewhat similar to the pendulum and one extreme usually follows another of the opposite character. We can not reasonably expect the heavy down pours of rain to continue and every one who has any knowledge of the weather by experience or tradition will expect the crop weather to be deficient in rainfall over those sections where the excessive rains have fallen.

My calculations made from 100 years records covering from 60 to 100 years indicate that we are coming to bad crop weather for these sections that have recently been too wet. The program will be nearly reversed. The dry sections will get too much rain and the wet sections not sufficient rains for best results in the growing crops.

Farmers and planters and truck gardeners can profit by carefully noting these matters. They can conduct the cultivating for dry weather where it has been too wet and for wet weather where it has been too dry.

The great shortage in grain and rough feed produced in 1911 and the great shortage in winter wheat for 1912 cannot be overcome by an average crop this year. The prospects are that all crops of 1912 will be below the ten year average. Even if a fair crop, only a little below the general average, is produced, prices must go very high if general business continues poor.

There is one other possible difficulty. Those who manipulate the world's financial conditions for speculative purposes usually select a bad crop year in which to bring about a depression in order that they may be able to lay it all onto the bad crops. If they have selected 1914 for a depression of course prices of the farm and plantation products will not go so high as they are able to do if business continues good.

Our people must expect short crops sometimes and the inconveniences that attend a shortage in crop products. It is a great advantage to know when to expect these shortages. We can not prevent them but we can prepare for them.

CONE HAS CHARGE OF WIRELESS WORK

Admiral Hutch I. Cone.

Admiral Hutch I. Cone, chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering of the Navy department, is superintending the construction of three enormous wireless towers near Fort Myer, Va. These towers will be the central station for the greatest wireless project ever contemplated by any government. Through them and with the aid of the remainder of the system this government will be able to talk with its battleships and submarines nearly all over the world. The towers nearly all over the world will be highest tower at Fort Myer will be 650 feet high and the two smaller ones will each be 450 feet high. Between these will be suspended the wires which will receive the signals from as far west as San Francisco and far east as Africa.

Ten-Cent Advance.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago, May 21.—Cattle prices continued high this morning with receipts light, estimated at 2,500 head. Trading was somewhat slower than yesterday, however, and very few offerings brought the $9.40 top price. Live market was slow with yesterday's prices prevailing. Sheep were favored with a ten-cent advance and met with good demand. Receipts were estimated at 12,000. Quotations were as follows:

Cattle—Receipts 25,000. Market—Slow and steady. Heavy—$10.40 to $10.50; medium—$10.20 to $10.30; light—$10.00 to $10.10. Steers—Receipts 10,000. Market—Slow and steady. Heavy—$10.20 to $10.30; medium—$10.00 to $10.10; light—$9.80 to $9.90. Hogs—Receipts 11,000. Market—Slow and steady. Heavy—$9.50 to $9.60; medium—$9.30 to $9.40; light—$9.10 to $9.20. A GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

Copyright, 1906, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"Please hand me the empty bucket in the kitchen, mother," she said. "I just had to bring these arrow points home, but I'm scared for fear I've soiled my dress and will have to wash it. I'm to clean them and take them to the bank in the morning, and oh, mother, I've sold enough stuff to pay for my books, my tuition and maybe a dress and some lighter shoes besides. Oh, mother, I'm so happy! Take the books and bring the bucket!"

Then she saw Margaret and Wesley. "Oh, glory!" she exclaimed. "I was just wondering how I'd ever wait to tell you, and here you are! It's too perfectly splendid to be true!"

"Tell us, Elvora," said Stinton.

"Well, sir," said Elvora, doubling down on the floor and spreading out her skirt, "set the bucket here, mother. These points are brittle and have to be put in one at a time. If they are chipped I can't sell them." And she told that that happened.

Elvora laid the last arrow point in the pan and arose, shaking leaves and bits of baked earth from her dress. She reached into her pocket and produced her money and waved it before their wondering eyes.

"And that's the joy part!" she exclaimed. "Put it up in the clock till morning, mother. That pays for the books and tuition—and—Elvora hesitated, for she saw the nervous grasp with which her mother's fingers closed on the bill. Then she went on, but more slowly and thinking before she spoke.

"What I got tomorrow pays for more books and tuition, and maybe a few, just a few, things to wear. These shoes are so dreadfully heavy and hot, and they make such a noise on the floor. There isn't another calico dress in the whole building, not among hundreds of us. Why, what is that? Aunt Margaret, what are you hiding in your lap?"

She snatched the waist and shook it out, and her face was beaming. "Have you taken to valises all fancy and but-toned in the back? I bet you this is mine!"

"I bet you so, too," said Margaret Stinton. "You undress right away and try it on, and if it fits it will be done for morning. There are some low shoes too!"

Elvora began to dance. "Oh, you dear people!" she cried. "I can pay for them tomorrow night! Isn't it too splendid! I was just thinking on the way home, that I certainly would be compelled to have calico shoes until later, and I was wondering what I'd do when the fall rains begin."

"I meant to get you some heavy dress skirts and a coat then," said Mrs. Comstock.

"I know you said so!" cried Elvora. "But you needn't now. I can get every single stitch I need myself. I'll be helping with the tax next, mother."

Elvora waved the waist and started for the bedroom. When she opened the door she gave a little cry.

"What have you people been doing?" she demanded. "I never saw so many interesting bundles in all my life. I'd shoot to death for fear I can't pay for all of them and will have to give up something."

"Wouldn't you take them if you could not pay for them, Elvora?" asked her mother instantly.

"Why, not unless you did," answered Elvora. "People have no right to wear things they can't afford, have they?"

"But from such old friends as Maggie and Wesley?" Mrs. Comstock's voice was oily with triumph.

"From them least of all," cried Elvora stoutly. "From a stranger sooner than from them, to whom I owe so much more than I ever can pay now."

"Well, you don't have to," said Mrs. Comstock. "Maggie just selected those things because she is more in touch with the world and has got such good taste. You can pay as long as your money holds out, and if there's more necessary maybe I can sell the butcher a calf, or if there's things too costly for us, of course, they can take them back. Anything that ain't used can be returned. They were only brought here on trial."

The girl began opening the packages. The hat came first.

"Mother," cried Elvora. "Mother, of course, you have seen this, but you haven't seen it on me. I must try it on."

"Don't you dare put that on your head until your hair is washed and properly combed," said Margaret. "While it dries you can eat your supper, and this dress will be finished. Then you can put on your new ribbon and your hat. That little round bundle on the top of the basket is your stock-ings."

Margaret sat down and began sewing swiftly, and a little later opened the machine and ran several long seams.

Elvora was back in a few minutes, holding up her skirts and stepping daintily in the beautiful new shoes.

Wesley and Margaret scarcely breathed for a long time. Then Wesley went to do the feeding. Elvora set the table. When the water was hot Margaret pinned a big towel around Elvora's shoulders and washed and dried the lovely hair according to the instructions she had been given the previous night. As the hair began to dry it billowed out in a sparkling sheen that caught the light and gleamed and flashed.

"Now, the idea is to let it stand naturally, just as the curl will make it. Don't you do any of that nasty, untidy snarling, Elvora," cautioned Margaret. "Wash it this way every two weeks while you are in school, shake it out and dry it. Then part it in the middle and turn a front quarter on each side from your face. You tie the back at your neck with a string—so, and the ribbon goes in a big, loose bow. I'll show you." One after another Margaret Stinton tied the ribbons, creating each of them so they could not be returned, as she explained that she was trying to see which was most becoming. Then she produced the raincoat, which carried Elvora into transports.

To Wesley and to Margaret the bright young face of Elvora, with its pink tints, its heavy dark brows, its bright blue gray eyes and its frame of curling reddish brown hair was the sweetest sight on earth, and at that instant Elvora was radiant.

She set the hat on her head. It was just a wide tan straw with three exquisite peacock quills at one side. Margaret Stinton cried out. Wesley slapped his knee and sighed like a blast and Mrs. Comstock stood speechless for a second.

"I wish you had asked the price before you put that on," she said impulsively. "We never can afford it."

"It's not so much as you think," said Margaret. "Don't you see what I did? I had them take off the quills and I put on some of those Phoebe Stims gave me from her peacocks. The hat will only cost you a dollar and a half."

She avoided Wesley's eyes and looked straight at Mrs. Comstock. Elvora removed the hat to examine it.

"Why, they are those reddish tan quills of yours!" she cried. "Mother, look how beautifully they are set out! I think they are fine. I'd much rather have them than those from the store."

"So would I," said Mrs. Comstock. "If Margaret wants to spare them, that will make you a beautiful hat, dirt cheap, too. You must go past Mrs.

Stims and show her. She would be pleased to see them."

Elvora sank into a chair because she couldn't stand any longer and contemplated her too. "Landy, ain't I a queen?" she murmured. "What else have I got?"

"Just a belt, some handkerchiefs and a pair of top shoes for rainy days and colder weather," said Margaret, handing over parcels.

"About those high shoes, that was my idea," said Wesley. "Soon as it rains low shoes won't do, and by taking two pairs at once I could get them some cheaper. The low ones are two and the high ones two-fifty, together three seventy-five. Ain't that cheap?"

"That's a real bargain," said Mrs. Comstock, "if they are good shoes, and they look it."

"This," said Wesley, producing the last package, "is your Christmas present from your Aunt Maggie. I got mine, too, but it's at the house. I'll bring it up in the morning."

He handed Margaret the umbrella, and she passed it over to Elvora, who opened it and sat laughing under its shelter. Then she kissed both of them. She got a pencil and a slip of paper and set down the prices they gave her of everything they had brought except the umbrella, added the sum and said laughingly: "Will you please wait till tomorrow for the money? I will have it then, sure."

"Elvora," said Wesley Stinton, "wouldn't you?"

"Elvora, hustle here a minute!" called Mrs. Comstock from the kitchen. "I need you!"

"One second, mother," answered Elvora, throwing off the coat and hat and closing the umbrella as she ran. There were several errands to do in a hurry, and then supper. Elvora chattered incessantly. Wesley and Margaret talked all the while, while Mrs. Comstock said a word now and then, which was all she ever did. But Wesley Stinton was watching her, and time and again he saw a peculiar little twist around her mouth. He knew that for the first time in sixteen years she really was laughing over something. She had all she could do to preserve her usually sober face. Wesley knew what she was thinking.

After supper the dress was finished, the plans for the next one discussed, and then the Stintons went home. Elvora gathered her treasures.

As she started for the stairs she stopped. "May I kiss you good night, mother?" she asked lightly.

"Never mind any snobbing," said Mrs. Comstock. "I should think you'd lived with me long enough to know that I don't care for it."

"Well, I'd love to show you in some way how happy I am and how I thank you."

"I wonder what for?" said Mrs. Comstock. "Aunt Stinton picked that stuff and brought it here, and you pay for it?"

"Yes, but you seemed willing for me to have it, and you said you would help me if I couldn't pay all," insisted Elvora.

"Maybe I did," said Mrs. Comstock. "Maybe I did. I meant to get you some heavy dress skirts about Thanksgiving, and I still can get them. Go to bed and for mercy's sake don't begin mooning before a mirror and make a dunce of yourself."

"You began it," said Wesley. "Those prices were all right. We didn't say what the goods cost us; we said what they would cost her. Surely she's mistaken about being able to pay all that. Can she pick up stuff of that value around the Limberlost? Didn't the Old Woman see her trouble and just give her the money?"

"I don't think so," said Margaret. "Seems to me I've heard of her paying or offering to pay them that would take the money for bugs and butter-milk, and I've known people who sold that banker Indian stuff. Once I heard that his pipe collection beat that of the government at the Philadelphia centennial. Those things have come to have a value."

"Well, there's about a bushel of that kind of valuables piled up in the woodshed that belongs to Elvora. At least I picked them up because she said she wanted them. Maggie, how the nation did Kato Comstock do that?"

"You will keep on harping, Wesley. I told you she didn't do it. Elvora did it! She walked in and took things right out of our hands. Spose we'd got Elvora when she was a baby, and we'd heaped on her all the love we can't on our own, and we'd coddled, petted and shielded her, would she have made the woman that living alone, learning to think for herself and taking all the knocks Kato Comstock could give her made of her?"

"You bet your life!" cried Wesley warmly. "Loving anybody don't hurt them. We wouldn't have done anything but love her. You can't hurt a child loving it. She'd have learned to work, be sensible, steady, and grown into a woman with us, without suffering like a poor homeless dog."

Down the road glided Margaret and Wesley Stinton. Neither of them had words to utter their united thought.

"Done!" hissed Wesley at last. "Done brown! Did you ever feel like a blooming, confounded donkey? How did the woman do it?"

"She didn't do it!" replied Margaret through her teeth. "She didn't do anything. She just trusted to Elvora's great big soul to bring her out right, and really she was right, and so it had to bring her. She's a darling, Wesley. But she's got a time before her. Did you see Kato Comstock grab that money?"

"Before six months she'll be out combing the Limberlost for bugs and arrow points to help pay the tax. I know her."

"Well, I don't," exclaimed Stinton. "She's too many for me. But there is a laugh left in her yet. I didn't spose there was. But you a dollar if we could see her this minute she'd be chuckling over the way we got left."

Both of them stopped in the road and looked back.

"There's Elvora's light in her room," said Margaret. "The poor child will feel those clothes and pore over her books till morning, but she'll look decent to go to school, anyway. Nothing is too big a price to pay for that."

"Yes, if Kato lets her wear them. Ten to one she makes her finish the week with that old stuff."

"No, she won't," said Margaret. "She don't dare. Kato made some concessions all right, big ones for her—if she did get her way in the mad. She bent some, and if Elvora proves that she can walk out bareheaded in the morning and come back with that much money in her pocket, an awful of books and buy a fifteen-dollar hat that she proves that she is of some consideration, and Kato's smart enough. She'll think twice before she'll do that. Elvora won't wear a calico dress to high school again. You watch and see if she does. She may have got the best clothes she'll get for a time for the least money, but she won't know it until she tries to buy goods herself at the same rates. Wesley, what about those prices? Didn't they shrink considerably?"

"You began it," said Wesley. "Those prices were all right. We didn't say what the goods cost us; we said what they would cost her. Surely she's mistaken about being able to pay all that. Can she pick up stuff of that value around the Limberlost? Didn't the Old Woman see her trouble and just give her the money?"

"Well, there's about a bushel of that kind of valuables piled up in the woodshed that belongs to Elvora. At least I picked them up because she said she wanted them. Maggie, how the nation did Kato Comstock do that?"

"You will keep on harping, Wesley. I told you she didn't do it. Elvora did it! She walked in and took things right out of our hands. Spose we'd got Elvora when she was a baby, and we'd heaped on her all the love we can't on our own, and we'd coddled, petted and shielded her, would she have made the woman that living alone, learning to think for herself and taking all the knocks Kato Comstock could give her made of her?"

"You bet your life!" cried Wesley warmly. "Loving anybody don't hurt them. We wouldn't have done anything but love her. You can't hurt a child loving it. She'd have learned to work, be sensible, steady, and grown into a woman with us, without suffering like a poor homeless dog."

Down the road glided Margaret and Wesley Stinton. Neither of them had words to utter their united thought.

"Done!" hissed Wesley at last. "Done brown! Did you ever feel like a blooming, confounded donkey? How did the woman do it?"

"She didn't do it!" replied Margaret through her teeth. "She didn't do anything. She just trusted to Elvora's great big soul to bring her out right, and really she was right, and so it had to bring her. She's a darling, Wesley. But she's got a time before her. Did you see Kato Comstock grab that money?"

"Before six months she'll be out combing the Limberlost for bugs and arrow points to help pay the tax. I know her."

"Well, I don't," exclaimed Stinton. "She's too many for me. But there is a laugh left in her yet. I didn't spose there was. But you a dollar if we could see her this minute she'd be chuckling over the way we got left."

Both of them stopped in the road and looked back.

"There's Elvora's light in her room," said Margaret. "The poor child will feel those clothes and pore over her books till morning, but she'll look decent to go to school, anyway. Nothing is too big a price to pay for that."

PUBLIC IS ASKED TO AID IN THE MATTER

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.

The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.

There are any number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worked advertisement, offering golden opportunities, and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses.

Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted. All newspapers have this experience.

But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns.

The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.
